WeRateDogs twitter Account Analysis

This article concentrates on analyzing tweet data of the Twitter account @dog_rates, also known as WeRateDogs. This account has more than 8.7 Million followers. (As of June 2, 2020) WeRateDogs is dedicated to rate people's dogs. The secrets behind popularity of WeRateDogs are, their ratings and funny comments they write about dogs they rate.
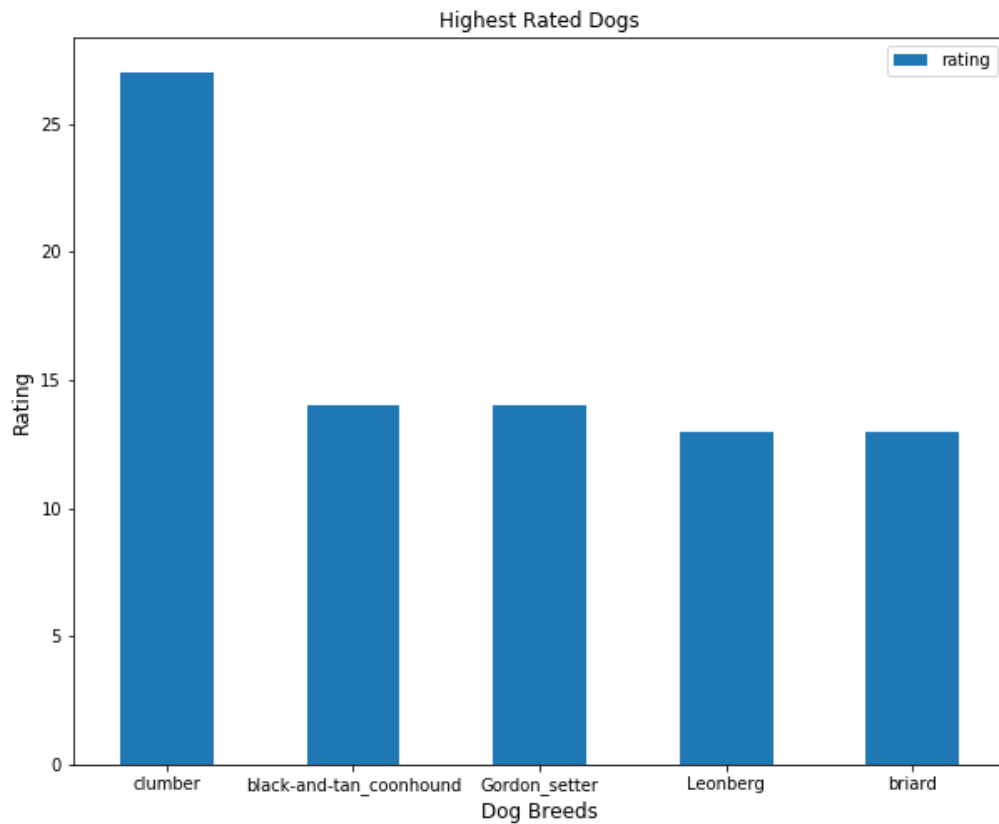

Below, three figures are drawn by analyzing data related to this account.
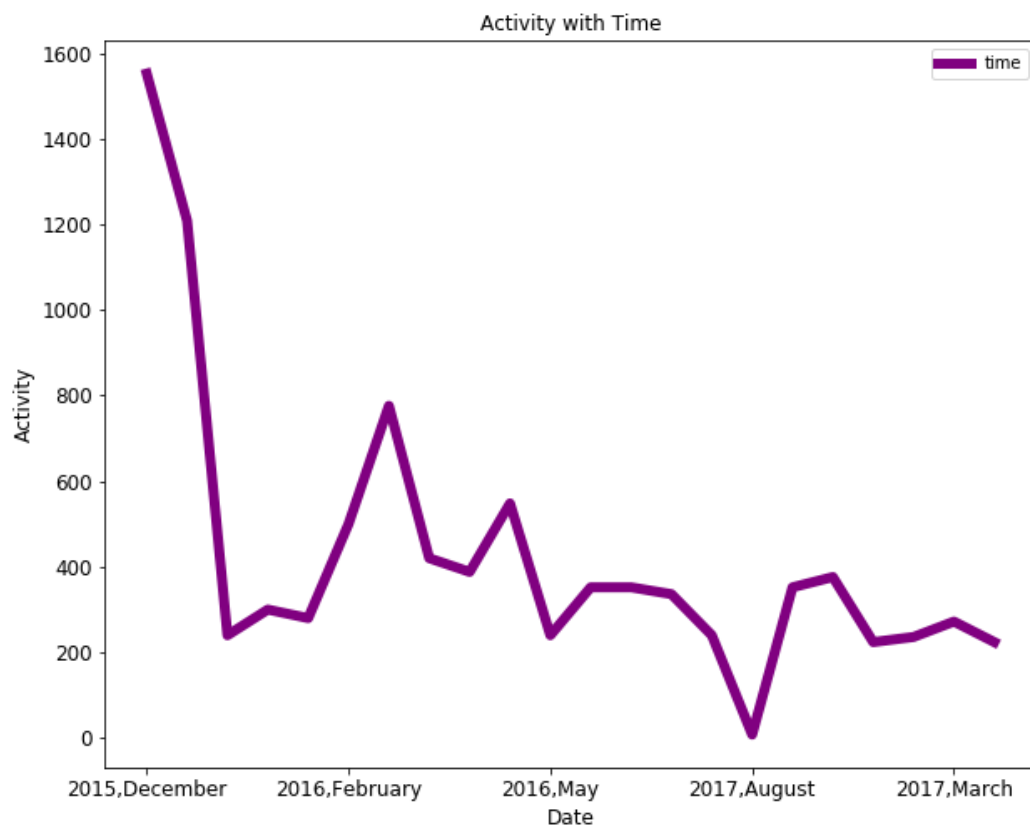

Most Famous Types of Dogs

After gathering data from the twitter page the number of tweets about each type of dog is counted to come up with this bar graph which clearly shows that the golden retriever is the most famous type of dogs. Next there is the Pembroke, the Labrador retriever, the pug, and finally the Samoyed.

Highest Rated types of dogs

In each tweet, the dog in the picture gets rated. After gathering the ratings of the dogs and finding their average, The highest rated dog turned out to be the Clumber, next there is the Black Coonhound, the Gordon Setter comes after, then the Leanberg, and finally the Briard.

Is WeRateDogs getting more activity of less with time

Studying the number of tweets along a time frame of two years, allowed us to find how the activity on We Rate Dogs page is varying with time. It is clear that according to the above figure the activity on the page was as high as 1500 tweets per month, then with time the number of tweets started decreasing until it reached around 220 in may 2017 thus the activity on the page is clearly decreasing with time.

Conclusion

The above figures clears out which dogs are the most famous, which are the highest rated, and shows how the activity of the page is varying with time.